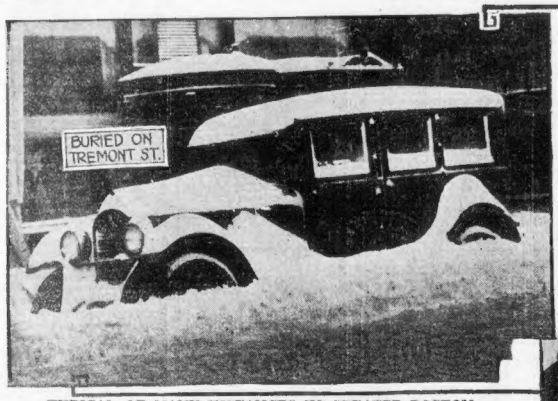
DIVA WILL PENS TAKES POISON IN HUB HOTEL



TYPICAL OF MANY INSTANCES IN GREATER BOSTON
Here is one of hundreds of autos snowed in and abandoned on the streets, with radiators frozen up and awaiting a "rescue squad." Scores of such instances were observed in Back Bay as well as other districts of the city proper and in the suburbs.

AN EARLY MORNING CLEANUP AT DEWEY SQUARE
A big force of men was thrown into the storm battle in down districts, and especially near the railroad terminals. This shows the squad at work in Dewey square, near South Station, where drifts were piled high by the swirling gale that accompanied the snowfall.

WALSH OF MONTANA HALTS OATH TO GOULD

Washington, Dec. 6 (A.P.).—The swearing in of Senator-elect Gould of Maine was interrupted today by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, who asked an investigation of charges of a payment of $100,000 by Gould interests to officials of the Canadian Province of New Brunswick. Senator Walsh offered a resolution asking that the Senate Elections Committee go into the matter, but the resolution went over for a day on motion of Senator Curtis of Kansas, he Republican leader, and Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire. Gould was then sworn in.

SNOWFALL HALTS ALL TRAFFIC

Seventeen storm deaths, two of them in Greater Boston, were reported in the east as the Hub today began digging itself out of the severest early season snowfall in 28 years.

Twelve inches of snow fell on Boston, bringing the total to date to 13 inches, according to official figures.

Many persons collapsed from exhaustion while walking through deep drifted snow in the city and suburbs, and one of these victims slowly froze to death in Jamaica Plain.

Mayor Nichols, canceling plans for the remainder of his honeymoon, took charge, personally, of the work of clearing the streets with the new $400,000 snow-removal equipment, which he forced the city to purchase after last year's storm difficulties.

MANY AUTOS STALLED.

Trains and trolleys, packed with commuters, reached the city on badly disrupted schedules, while the snow stalled hundreds of automobiles in all sections.

A fresh storm warning for the area between Sandy Hook, N. Y., and Eastport, Me., was issued by the weather bureau at Washington, which reported that a disturbance of considerable intensity, moving northeastward, would cause strong gales along the seaboard.

Eight of the storm deaths occurred in New England and four of them in Massachusetts. These four were as follows:

Frank C. Dugin, 46, No. 46 Creighton street, Jamaica Plain.
Alonzo F. Walts, 70, No. 17 Plummer street, Everett.
Timothy Kiley, 68, of Randolph.
Frank H. Wark, Boston & Albany brakeman, at Springfield.

Durgin, a former Boston policeman, was making early morning collections as a laundryman when he collapsed in the snow. His body was found several hours later by Ralph Sasco of No. 13 Isley road, when Sasco opened his door to get his morning paper.

While on his way to work in a shoe factory, Kiley sank exhausted and died in Warren street, Randolph from heart failure.

Waltz, oldest member of the Everett fire department, died from heart failure due to over-exertion while walking to Everett square from his home.

Blinded by swirling snow, Wark was instantly killed when struck by

In Young Detroit Please Shoot Carefully Drink, Across the River Where Your Dollar Goes

By Arthur Brisbane

IN DETROIT, where this is written on a cold Sunday, with deep snow on the ground, the traveler sees everything he expects in a booming American city.

Building is progressing in all parts of Detroit, more energetically than ever—hotels, office buildings, theatres going up everywhere.

THE BOOK TOWER, highest building in the city, has just been finished, and now the energetic Book people are at work on their eighty-story building, which will set a new record for the world. This city in itself is a marvelous world's record, a city of young people.

HENRY FORD is busy with new plans, about which the public guesses, while he says nothing. It is not true, however, that he is about to introduce a new car of six or eight cylinders.

FREE WALSH'S WIFE IN DEATH SURGERY TRIAL

Mrs. Marian Walsh, on trial with her husband, Dr. Thomas E. Walsh, in connection with the death of Edith Louise Greene, was freed in Superior Court today.

Attorney John P. Feeney moved for a directed verdict of not guilty on both the doctor and his wife. Judge Grey directed the verdict for the woman, charged with conspiracy and being an accessory to illegal surgery. He denied the motion for Dr. Walsh's acquittal.

Feeney argued that the only evidence presented against Mrs. Walsh was by James V. Ford, the "paper box" victim's fiance. Ford testified that when he talked with Dr. Walsh about keeping the girl at his office the doctor said, "Wait a minute, I must talk with my wife."

SURGEONS OPERATE ON KING OF RUMANIA

Bucharest, Rumania, Dec. 6 (A.P.).—King Ferdinand today underwent an operation shortly after the return of Queen Marie from her tour of the United States. His physicians announced that the operation was successful.

The operation was to relieve a hemhorreoidal condition. It was stated. An official communique stated that the King was making an excellent recovery.

The operation, for hemorrhoids was not a dangerous one. His physicians say the King will be able to leave his bed within a few days.

SALM WED $40,000,000 ROGERS GIRL ON 'DARE'

New York, Dec. 6 (Universal).—Millicent Rogers, $40,000,000 heiress, and Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraten will face each other Wednesday before Justice Levy.

Both were reported ready by their respective lawyers, Albert Conway and Herman B. Goodstein, for the trial of the Count's suit for separation.

Lawyers could not recall many cases in which husbands have sued wives for separation. Such suits are usually brought by wives, who desire alimony for separate support, but who do not desire to free their husbands for a new marriage.

In his affidavit supporting his petition, Count Salm said he had wed Miss Rogers on a dare by her.

He declared that she told him she wished to marry him to escape marrying "a person distasteful to her" whom her parents were seeking to force her to wed.

Sensational allegations concerning the Count's romantic attachments at the time of their sudden Municipal Building marriage are said to be contained in the Countess's reply. This has been carefully guarded pending the trial, and attorneys declined to disclose it.

12 Inch Snowfall in Worst December Storm Since '98

Twelve inches of snow fell, according to weather bureau figures.

It was the worst early season snowfall since 1898, when 13½ inches fell Nov. 27 and 28 and five inches more on Nov. 30.

Severe storms earlier than Dec. 5 in past years are listed as follows at the weather bureau.

Dec. 2, 4, 5, 1892, 13½ inches.
Nov. 6, 1894, 6 inches.
Dec. 3, 4, 1901, 9 inches.

SACCO PLEA DENIED

Socialist members of the French Chamber of Deputies were refused an audience with Governor Fuller in Paris today, in the matter of Sacco and Vanzetti, convicted of murder in the East Braintree payroll murders, according to a cable despatch from France.

The French deputies are understood to have planned appeals for clemency for Sacco and Vanzetti. The Governor said:

"I have decided not to receive delegates that have requested interviews because I am too busy, and furthermore, I could give them no satisfaction.

R. I. MAN HELD BY COURT IN SEEKONK SLAYING

Taunton, Dec. 6 (A.P.).—Joseph Kapinos, 32 of Pawtucket, charged with the murder of Mike Kowalkovace, farm hand at the Seeknok farm of Joseph Marokowski, pleaded not guilty in District Court here today. The case was continued to Dec. 10. John Skrzynlacz, and Ignatuis Skrzynlacz, half brothers of the prisoner, were ordered released. No charges were brought aginst them.

DIVA TAKES POISON AT HUB HOTEL AFTER SHE PENS WILL; LIFE SAVED

First writing a will, then penning three letters, Lydia Lindgren, the "Swedish Nightingale" of the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera Companies, drank poison at the Copley-Plaza today.

Only a mad taxi race through drifted streets in the teeth of the snowstorm got her to the City Hospital in time for emergency measures by Dr. Robert Coleman that probably will save her life.

Why she swallowed the poison in her hotel suite no one at the hotel could say, and Miss Lindgren was not in condition to be questioned at the hospital in the first few hours after her arrival.

With her to the hospital, after she had calmly summoned a cab, she took the three letters she had written, one to Otto H. Kahn of New York.

COOLIDGE TRIES TO STOP CHAOS IN RADIO

Washington, Dec. 6 (I.N.S.).—President Coolidge personally intervened today in the confusion that prevails at the opening of Congress over radio legislation.

He gathered at the White House breakfast table, Senators McLean of Conn., Wadsworth of New York, Edge of New Jersey, and Oddie of Nevada; Representatives French of Ohio, White of Maine, Strong of Kansas, and Gibson of Vermont, and for more than an hour discussed ways and means of breaking the deadlock that exists between the House and Senate over whether Secretary of Commerce Hoover or an independent bureau should be vested with regulatory powers over radio.

Indications are that a compromise will be reached.

GRILL GIRL IN HUNT FOR GLEASON'S 'PAL'

Medford police and State detectives today are extending their search for Peter Curry, nineteen, champion Charleston dancer, of No. 52 Chestnut street, Jamaica Plain, wanted in connection with the hold-up and fatal shooting of James Monagle in his Medford store a week ago Saturday.

Curry, the police charge, was named by Herbert Gleason, in his confession of Monagle's slaying, as his companion that fatal night. At the same time the police are seeking a third youth, believed to have

SHIPPING HALTED.

Shipping along the New England coast and in the North Atlantic was harassed by snow and gales which whipped the sea into mountainous waves. The White Star liner Celtic, en route from New York to Liverpool, was forced to wait 24 hours before taking on passengers here. The Celtic anchored all night off Brayes Light.

Schools were ordered closed in practically all the suburban and outlying communities, including Brookline, Somerville, Medford, Malden, Everett and Arlington. In Boston and other places where attendance is left to the discretion of parents, many schools were all but deserted.

Property damage and snow removal costs in New England were expected to reach record high marks for this time of year. Public Works Commissioner James H. Sullivan of Boston, who with Mayor Nichols went into the streets to supervise removal operations, figured that the expense would total the high figures of last year's storms, but hoped to have the clearance work done much more quickly.

More than 1,500 workmen and 100 vehicles, including the blade-plows, were at work in the Hub at an early hour.

First attention was directed to the shopping districts and the main arteries of travel, Washington street, Tremont street, Massachusetts avenue and other highways. Parked cars caused trouble in some places and brought a storm of protest from city officials.

At the Fish Pier, where usually 25 to 50 craft appear from the sea on Monday, only a few vessels showed up.

All were heavily laden with snow and reported a heavy vapor, combined with blinding snow, causing trouble outside the harbor, and fog was felt for many small vessels out of the port of Boston.

The Hamburg-American liner Thuringia, with 250 passengers and 1,300 sacks of early Christmas mail, docked 24 hours late. The steamship Sagamore, due Sunday from New York, was another vessel forced to wait outside the harbor for more favorable docking conditions.

Drifting with sails in tatters, the schooner Horace A. Stone was under the protection of the coast guard cutter Monhegan, off Highland Light. The Brockelbank freighter Mahronda left port a day behind schedule, headed for London.

Deep drifts gave railroads trouble in country regions. In the Lexington section one Boston & Maine train on the Lexington branch was forty minutes late. Officials of the Boston & Maine reported that they had "won the battle with the storm," except for this branch line.

Trains reached the South Station from five to twenty-five minutes late on the Boston & Albany and New Haven roads. Hundreds of railroad employes were at work attacking drifts and burning out switches in the yards with kerosene.

The "light" character of the snow gave snow-shoveling pleasure to hundreds of householders, who ordinarily would resort to hired labor to clear their walks, and among those who joined the Boston army of resident-shovelers was Miss Nancy Cox, daughter of former Governor Channing H. Cox.

Boston was harder hit of all New England localities by the snowfall. Cold weather added to the hardship and the cold was due to continue for 24 hours at least, according to the Weather Bureau, although it was predicted that tomorrow would be less cold than the week-end.

ON THE DEATH ROLL.

Besides the eight deaths in New England and eight in New York State, there was one in New Jersey.

A Boston-bound train was held up at Chelsea station for more than an hour and one was stalled for several hours at Portsmouth, N. H. Through trains from the west ran very late and the "Minute Man Express" from Chicago was four hours late reaching the North Station, due to delays in New York State and beyond.

Sixty new snow-removal trucks, 20 other trucks, 20 tractors and 5 snow-loading machines were the equipment at work in Boston streets. Brookline had out 150 men, 42 horse-drawn sidewalk plows, 8 trucks and a new 10-ton tractor, under Superintendent of Streets Daniel G. Lacy.

More than 300 extra men were at work clearing away snow for the Boston Elevated Railway.

Weather Forecaster Loveland explained that the sudden snowfall was caused by the extremely rapid passage of a low barometric pressure area which had been centered in Colorado and the Southwest as Saturday morning. Reaching New England it was held here by an extensive area of high pressure to the northeast, and could not pass on until the high pressure area moved out over the Atlantic.

At Bangor, Me., and Malone, N. Y., the temperature dropped to 20 degrees below zero during the height of the storm. In Manchester, N. H., nearest to Boston in depth of snowfall, 11¾ inches were reported.

At Highland Light, the gale reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour. Northern New England suffered intense cold with no relief in sight.

WOMAN IN COLLAPSE.

Mrs. Eleanor Blake of No. 18 Aspinwall avenue, Brookline, was overcome with fatigue while walking to the East Boston tunnel station at Maverick square and was taken to the East Boston Relief Hospital. Later she was taken home.

Scores of snow-plows were put in operation by the Boston Elevated Railway on its surface lines and by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway.

Bus lines in many localities were not in operation, and virtually all the long-distance bus lines were out of commission.

Five deaths were reported in New York city and three in Buffalo, all directly traceable to the snow and cold.

While There Is Life There's Hope and He May Win Yet

Surely, this is a tale of woe!

"My wife and child are marooned in Milton. My car is snowed in in Wakefield. My water pipes are frozen. There's no coal in the cellar. And I've got a hound yelling his head off in the parlor."

And thus did one member of the editorial staff of the Boston Evening American place his stamp of disapproval on old King Winter today.

As Boston Used Snow Shovel

All eyes turned today to watch the effect of Boston's new snow-removal equipment, costing nearly $400,000, on the record fall of early-season snow.

* * *

Schools were closed in practically every suburban community, shipping in and out of Boston was entirely disrupted and trains and trolleys were delayed.

* * *

More than 1,500 men were at work clearing Boston streets.

* * *

Stalled automobiles brought hundreds of calls for assistance to the relief crews of the automobile associations and other garage forces.

* * *

The record-breaking cold of the week-end was due to diminish slightly, but generally cold weather is predicted for the coming 24 hours.

* * *

Although it was a "surprise storm," railroads, street railways and city departments were attacking the snow long before it stopped falling and reported early today that they had "the battle" won.

* * *

Probably never before were so many buses put out of commission by a snow storm. Many local lines were suspended and virtually all long distance runs were abandoned for the day.

SNOW LOAD DRAGS HORSE TO DEATH IN CHANNEL

"Nigger," a black horse, was killed in the performance of duty today when, with his burden, a load of snow, he was plunged into the Fort Point channel in spite of the efforts of Richard Guerrerio, the driver, who risked his life to save his charge. Guerrerio, who lives in East Boston, is employed by the city in carting away snow. He was dumping a load into the water on Dorchester avenue near Summer street, when his team started to slide backwards, pulling the horse along. Guerrerio leaped to the horse's head and hung on, but was nearly dragged into the water himself. He suffered a lacerated ear and was taken to Boston City Hospital.

BROOKLINE SELECTMEN MEET THIS WEEK TO DISCUSS DANGERS AT THIS HAZARDOUS CROSSING WHERE THREE MET DEATH

Because of three fatalities, "Death Corner" is the name given by Brookline residents to the intersection of Summit avenue and Beacon streets, where lack of sufficient illumination makes one of the worst motor hazards in metropolitan Boston. Responding to many complaints received since the death of the third victim, Seth Nichols of No. 420 Beacon street, Brookline selectmen will meet this week to take action on a report by the chief of police and Street Commissioner Daniel Lacy, who conducted an investigation. Dangers of the hazardous corner are depicted in the accompanying photograph.

CRABTREE GIRL ABANDONED AT AGE OF 3

Mrs. Carlota Cockburn, who says she is the daughter of Jack A. Crabtree and claimant to the millions of the late Lotta Crabtree, was abandoned by her parents in 1884, it was revealed today in Suffolk Probate Court.

A petition for her adoption by Ed Bullock, Jack Crabtree's partner in a livery stable in Tombstone, Ariz., was introduced by James M. Hoy, counsel for Mrs. Cockburn.

In the petition Ed Bullock, "43 and unmarried, of good moral character," sought to adopt the three-year-old "girl baby," whom Bullock declared was "destitute and thrown upon the mercy of friends because she was abandoned by her mother and father."

Bullock's petition was granted in 1884 and he was given the right to call the girl Lottie Bullock.

A marriage certificate was offered to show that Mrs. Cockburn was Robert Cockburn as Lola Bullock on October 14, 1925, in Tucson, Ariz.

Dr. Nelson B. Gilkerson, who attended the mother when the child was born, testified in a deposition that he understood the name of the baby was either Lottie or Charlotta, depending upon whether one was using the English or spanish pronunciation.

He further stated he heard nothing derogatory about the marriage of Jack Crabtree and Annie Leopold.

"There were a few marrying people there, you know," Dr. Gilkerson said naively in his deposition.

The doctor couldn't remember how much he was paid for attending Mrs. Crabtree other than that the amount was taken out in the boarding of his horses in the livery stable.

BEGGING BOYS SHIPPED BACK TO ITALY

The "suffering poor of Italy" will have a chance to reclaim two of their brethren very soon, for a pair of youths who were picked up in East Boston last night for illegally soliciting funds were unwilling sailors on the S. S. Menemdrea today.

In the worst of the storm Patrolman John T. Buckley of East Boston encountered Francesco Rodinski and Mirillo Chiosone, each 20 years old. They explained that they were collecting "for the suffering poor of Italy."

Patrolman Buckley wasn't quite satisfied that the funds would ever reach the homeless, and marched the pair to East Boston station, where they were booked on a technical charge of larceny.

Today in court, while the dapper young Italians were coming out a verdict of $50 to Judge Bowen, Nemeca stalked into the courtroom in the person of U. S. Immigration Inspector Thomas Argonne. On inspector Andrews' last recognition was in maintenance. The 180 days were more fruitful on admitting acquaintance.

The inspector walked over to Judge Bowen and said: "If you want to drop the charge against these youths, I think we can take care of them. In fact, the immigration officials have been unable to take care of them ever since they sneaked into the country."

Judge Bowen smiled.

At 12 o'clock Francesco and Mario were on the deck of the S. S. Menemdrea, sailing back to their homeland.

HOUSE IN LANCASTER BURNS; LOSS IS $10,000

Lancaster, Dec. 6.—The home of Edgar Moss, at South Lancaster, a two-and-one-half story house, was burned with a loss of $10,000.

Water was low in the wells on the Moss estate and it was necessary for the firemen to lay hose for a distance of 2,000 feet.

75 DRIVEN TO STREET BY FIRE IN BACK BAY

Fear of burglars caused Mrs. Mary C. Nutter, wife of Marcus O. Nutter, wealthy furrier, of No. 332 Bay State road, to endanger her life early today when fire swept through her home, causing about $7,000 of the loss to flee into the storm.

The fire started in the kitchen of the Nutter apartment, police said, and swept upward, entering three other apartments before it was checked.

The block is almost directly across from the Boston Architectural headquarters.

The cause of the blaze was not known. It is thought to have smouldered for about two hours before breaking into flame. Mrs. Nutter was alone at the time, her husband being on a business trip in Maine.

The janitor of the building discovered the blaze and sounded an alarm. He then aided through the burning structure arousing tenants assisted by Francis C. Vorhies, whose apartment is next to that of the Nutters.

Mrs. Nutter was awakened, but refused to admit the two men. Double bolts on her door prevented them from breaking in. Then Vorhies finally convinced her of his identity, she threw back the bolts and nearly collapsed, police said, from the effects of smoke. She was taken to the Vorhies suite and attended by a physician.

The other apartments damaged by the flames were occupied by Ruben Robenstein, Alice Barton and Alexander McIntyre. The other suite was vacant. Damage to the building was placed at about $1,200. Damage to personal property, however, will probably be more than that, police said.

accompanied Curry when he disappeared from his home last Monday. The name of his youth is withheld by the police.

Search for Curry has been going on since last Tuesday by the Roxbury Crossing police, but not as a hobby and staying suspect. His mother, alarmed at his absence, reported him missing, and special officers were detailed to find him. The search has been at the request of the Medford police.

An East Boston girl friend of the missing Curry, has been questioned and admits she saw him as late as Wednesday, but does not know his present whereabouts. He had only two dollars when he left home, and this girl denies that she gave him any money. The youth believed to be missing with him also had only two dollars.

Camps at Montgomery have been thoroughly searched by State troopers and Roxbury Crossing police but the youths were not found. Police in their many have been three or four months connected in the missing affair, although only two entered the store.

When the reported her son missing, Mrs. Curry said he appeared very nervous and uneasy on Sunday and Monday, up to the time he disappeared.

STILL FAVORITES OF SANTA

NO ENGINE TROUBLE WITH THEM

Santa Claus, writing his Greater Boston boys and girls, says he still prefers these reindeer and a sleigh to traveling by airplane.

'DEATH CORNER' REMEDY ASKED

Poor lights, view obstructed corners and parked cars are among the causes of three deaths at "Death Corner," where Summit avenue and Beacon streets meet in Brookline.

Recommendations for the correction of these three faults will be made to Brookline selectmen when they meet this week to discuss the dangerous corner. An investigation by the chief of police and Commissioner of Streets Daniel Lacy was ordered by the selectmen after the death of Seth Nichols of No. 420 Beacon street.

From Beacon street to the top of Corey Hill. There are usually 4 Summit avenue is a steep grade number of cars parked near the corner which make it impossible to see. The selectmen have been asked to take action by a number of Brookline residents.

Santa Claus has had to wire his headquarters at the North Pole for more help to handle the flood of mails which has poured into his headquarters at Houghton & Dutton's, following his broadcast with Big Brother at WEEI.

When you think that the dear old fellow is receiving about 500 letters a day and undertakes to answer every one, you can imagine what a task it is. But he wants to hear from every little girl and boy and his promises to answer if they are addressed in care of Houghton & Dutton Company.

Santa says he liked his airplane trip to Boston. "But I prefer my reindeer. You know reindeer are slower but much surer. I was delayed two days by bad weather and I did so hate to disappoint my little friends. Due to engine trouble I was later than expected on many days and girls had gone to bed before I came. Next year I hope there will be snow enough so I can come all the way with my reindeer sled."

The Fairyland of delight, where Houghton & Dutton Company operates each year on its fourth floor as a bonus for Santa until Christmas, is a very fascinating place just now.

Every Monday and Thursday night at 7:30 and Fridays at 6:30 Santa Claus will be on the air from WEEI. He wants everybody to listen to his programs and to write him in care of Houghton & Dutton Company.

2 SCHOONERS LOST IN STORM

Liverpool, N. S., Dec. 6 (A.P.).—Floating debris was all that remained today of the coastal schooner W. C. Smith, wrecked in the storm of Port Herbert. The captain and crew of five men saved their lives by leaving the vessel before it broke up.

The schooner, loaded with laths and lumber, was bound for New York. It once was in the Lunenberg fishing fleet.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 6 (A.P.).—A three-masted schooner went aground at Gull Cove, Whitehead Island, Grand Manan, during a severe storm today. Volunteer life savers were attempting to rescue the crew.

The name of the vessel and the number of men in the crew were not known by the keeper of Gull Cove light, who reported the accident to the Fisheries and Marine Department.

There is no life saving station at Gull Cove.

Dies in Hotel

Taken suddenly ill at a downtown hotel, A. A. King, sixty-five, of Springfield, died today before a physician arrived.

CHICAGO DIVA DRINKS POISON IN BOSTON

Despite her condition, the singer insisted on taking much of her baggage and personal papers along with her in the taxi. She also had a substantial sum of money, it was stated at the hospital.

Miss Lindgren is about 37 years old and is the wife of Raoul Quirze, operatic tenor. From the woman, hospital authorities learned that Quirze is now stopping at the Hotel St. Andrew, at 72nd street and Broadway, New York City. He was notified of his wife's condition.

On the trip from the hotel to the hospital, Miss Lindgren's cab was forced to battle its way over streets that had not yet seen a plow, together with bitter winds that were sweeping up the fallen snow and sending its blinding confusion in all directions.

Three years ago Lindgren was reported by her husband as having vanished with $14,000 worth of jewelry belonging her husband.

The Boston Evening American found her, however, at the Federal Building, where she was transacting business in connection with her naturalization.

She said then that she had had an appointment with her husband, but there had been a misunderstanding over the meeting place with the result that they missed each other.

It is expected that Quirze will come to Boston to see his wife.

Again 30 years ago, in an interview given the Evening American Mrs. Lindgren said there were but two things she feared, death and the darkness.

Miss Lindgren studied music, gained the rank of captain of Europe. She is master of seven languages and has appeared in grand opera throughout Europe and the United States.

FREE WALSH'S WIFE, NOT HIM

in a few minutes and said: "It's all right. She can stay here and you can see her."

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien admitted that was the only testimony connecting the doctor's wife with the case. Judge Casey then directed the jury to acquit Mrs. Walsh.

PARTY IS DESCRIBED.

Less than ten minutes after the defense opened its case today Attorney Feeney announced here it is finished. The Statesd ad rested after Ford was under cross-examination by Feeney for a few minutes.

Defense counsel asked a recess and when a crowded courtroom had hardly settled to listen to an expected long defense the defense closed.

The move came with startling suddenness. Only three defense witnesses took the stand. Their testimony had to do with a party at the home of Dr. Walsh on July 10, the night on which the State charges illegal surgery was performed on the Greene girl.

OLD FRIEND TESTIFIES.

The first defense witness was Augustus Gill, official police photographer.

He testified that when Ford made his confession he said he believed himself responsible for the Greene girl's condition until he had learned she went with others. He left the stand in less than five minutes.

Charlotte Walsh, Washington Heights, West Roxbury, was the second witness. She testified she was at Dr. Walsh's home that Saturday night.

"I got there between 11 and 12:30," she said, "and stayed all night. It was an late when the party ended I decided not to go home."

SAW NO BODY.

Feeney asked if she had gone into the doctor's office while she was at the house.

When she said she had and had also gone into every room in the house, Feeney asked if she had seen anything resembling the form of a woman in any of the rooms.

She answered in the negative and left the stand.

The last witness, Mrs. Nora T. Flynn, left the stand after testifying she, too, was at the party and that Dr. Walsh's mother was sick that night.

THUGS CRACK 3 SAFES IN STORE; GET $55,000 LOOT

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 6 (A.P.).—More than $55,000 was obtained by three men who blew three safes in the Schoenemann and Mannheimer's department store. The robbers worked for four hours, guarding two watchmen and forcing one of them to make his regular hourly rounds to "pull bells." The loot included $35,000 in cash, $15,000 in stocks and bonds of which about $5,000 is negotiable, and several pieces of jewelry. The store is less than two blocks from police headquarters.

Old Cabbies Get Rich On $25-Hour Central Park Sleigh Rides

New York, Dec. 6.—One may go sleighing in Central Park now for $25 an hour. Old cabbies are reaping a harvest with the six sleighs extant in the city.

But some of their old-time patrons are mourning because time was when the occupants of the first sleigh of the season to arrive at a tavern in the park got a magnum of champagne free. The first of this season received lemonade.

CONGRESS IN SESSION; HAS 12,000 BILLS

Washington, Dec. 6. (A.P.)—Congress, opening today, is confronted with the usual legislative congestion which piles up as each succeeding Congress approaches its constitutional expiration every second March 4.

More than 12,000 bills are already on the Senate and House calendars, where they were left without action when the last session adjourned.

Appropriation bills to supply funds for all agencies of the executive branch of the government must be enacted, and advocates of legislation touching upon radio control, prohibition, taxation, alien property, Muscle Shoals, branch banking, farm relief and rivers and harbors are clamoring for attention, together with several international problems.

TRYING TO OUTLAW GAS.

Among these, alien property radio and the McFadden branch banking bills, the Lausanne treaty with Turkey and the treaty to outlaw use of poisonous gas in warfare have been accorded places on tentative programs prepared for the Senate and House.

President Coolidge's message, which will be sent to the capitol by special messenger this year, will not be delivered for reading in the Senate and House until tomorrow, to be followed Wednesday by the annual budget message.

Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee intends to start the battle over the gas treaty without delay. He and Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democrat on the committee, will lead the fight for the treaty, while the opposition, which is backed by the American Legion, will be headed by Senators Reed of Pennsylvania and Moses of New Hampshire, Republicans.

LEGION ON THE JOB.

A Legion committee has been delegated to stay in Washington during the fight and to do what it can to bring about rejection of the treaty.

Programs for the first two days of the session were cut to the formalities of convening out of respect for men who have died since the July adjournment, Senators Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, and Bert M. Fernald of Maine, and "Uncle Joe" Cannon, former Speaker of the House.

MUSEUM GETS JEWISH CANVAS FROM BINDER

Jewish art lovers in Boston, with a fund raised by popular subscription, have presented "The Old Talmudist," a painting by Jacob Binder, to the Museum of Fine Arts.

The picture is now on exhibition in the modern gallery at the museum and is said to be of fine quality. A committee, Alexander Brin, Carl Sprague, Louis E. Kirstein, A. J. Pallbant and A. C. Hatchkesky, made the presentation.

The painting shows a patriarchal Jew, draped in the sacred Talith, or shawl. He is reading from the Talmud and the face shows reverence, concentration and peace. It is a picture, the full significance of which is instantly appreciated by a Jew and only a man who knows well the sentiment of reading from the Talmud could paint it.

The artist Binder was born in Russian Poland. Coming to this city, he studied at the Museum of Fine Arts school under Joe De Camp, one of America's greatest portrait painters. Binder has done many other pictures, but this is considered his best.

RUM COURT IS CHALLENGED BY ATTY. LEWIS

Chief entertain's Mate Robert E. Taylor of the United States Coast Guard, through his attorney, William H. Lewis, at the opening of his court martial trial at the Charlestown Navy Yard, today challenged the court as to its status in trying him, claiming that the court might be biased because of having heard testimony in two other cases similar to his own.

Lewis claimed that the evidence against his client was obtained by Treasury gent Rum and no alleged department of justice agent raided Wilson. Lewis also claimed that Chief Petty Officer Doten was not notified in the previous trials and scheduled to testify against Taylor.

Following the challenge the court room was cleared and a little later Atty. Lewis declared his willingness to proceed and waived the challenge.

SMOKE MAKES GIRLS FLEE

Fire of unknown origin in a six-story brick building at No. 91 Fulton street, North End, drove eighty girls to the snow-covered streets today.

The blaze started on the first floor occupied by the New England Pillow Company and smoke poured through the rest of the building tenanted by the Cushman Candy Co. and the Empire Spice Company.

Fifty girls employed by the Hodson Confectionery Co. on the fourth floor scrambled down the stairway without waiting to find their wraps The loss was estimated at $1,000.

SCOTLAND YARD AIDS IN HUNT FOR U. S. WOMAN

Workingham, Berkshire, Eng., Dec. 6 (A.P.).—Scotland Yard detectives have been called in to aid the Berkshire constabulary in their search for the American novelist, Agatha Clarissa Christie, who disappeared after leaving her home in Sunningdale in her motor car late Friday night.

3 RESCUED BY COAST GUARD

New Bedford, Dec. 6.—Three Fairhaven men were rescued by coast guardsmen of the Cuttyhunk Station after being adrift in an open motor boat for thirty-six hours. The men, Edmund Cuya, August Diegle and John Diegle, were in an exhausted condition when they were landed here early today.

Relatives told the police the men left Saturday on a fishing trip. The coast guard patrol was notified when they failed to return and the search continued through the night. At dawn a patrol boat sighted the missing boat drifting about fifteen miles from shore with a disabled motor.

Rambeau Trial Postponed

HUNDREDS OF FAMILIES ASK AID FROM GOODFELLOWS

It is Christmas morning in the Home of Plenty. Gloria and Billy are awake. They hop out of bed and without taking time to dress rush helter-skelter to the living room. What a picture confronts them! Overnight Santa Claus has swooped down upon the sleeping household and left behind a myraid of good things.

There is a Christmas tree taken with tinsel and bright ornaments which scintillates on the morning sunshine. Beneath the tree are numerous packages filled with everything from candy and fizzy soda and dreamed Santa would leave for them.

The stockings they hung on sleds are filled to the brim. The house is nice and warm and the children see all the packages with open eyes.

By this time mother and father have arrived and are enjoying the spectacle as only true parents may. Later in the day there is a bountiful dinner. In the afternoon granny and grandpa, uncle and aunt, cousins and other relatives bring more packages for the yuletide. Games are played by the children, and

ASKS $150,000 FOR HUB HARBOR

Determination of an annual sum of $150,000 for Boston Harbor is contained in the annual report of Major-General Harry Taylor, chief of engineers, U. S. Army, according to announcement made today.

This amount is Boston's share of the recommended expenditure of $3,317,000 for river and harbor improvements for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928. The amount is exclusive of available funds.

The annual report recommended an expenditure of $250,000 in New England, distributed as follows: Portland Harbor, $75,000; Penobscot River, R. I., $ 15,000; Pollock Rip Slude, Nantucket Sound, $5,000; Cuttyhunk Harbor, $15,000; Point Judith Harbor, R. I., $ 15,000; Connecticut River below Hartford, $150,000; Thames River, Norwich, Conn., $50,000; and Housatonic River, Conn., $15,000.

BOLTON CHURCH IS BURNED

Bolton, Dec. 6.—Fire today destroyed the Unitarian Church, causing $50,000 loss.

All rare surrounding books, including Lancaster and Holton, was salvaged, but the most of several rooms surrounded the structure from arriving in time. The only piece of immovable loss is a small pipe organ.

Firemen fought their efforts to prevent the flames from spreading. It is believed the fire was caused by an overheated chimney. The church was 100 years old.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

A CHEERY LITTLE CHRISTMASY CARD, SUGGESTING Holly-time and gift lists appears in my morning mail. It announces that Claire Reggio and Alice Means have set up shop together, and is but another of those straws in the wind indicating that Milady of the Smart World adores taking a flyer in "trade." Fashionable matrons love to "sell things" and having had a volume of experience at bazaars and such, its only natural to find them invading the work-a-day world seriously.

MRS. MEANS AND MRS. REGGIO (formally speaking they are Mrs. Robert Whitman Means and Mrs. A. Nicholas Reggio) are keeping shop but temporarily, commencing today and ending on Saturday week. For sick in trade they have lingerie and lovely intimate things for the boudoir, lamp shades and paper novelties. And their shingle is hung out in that busy thoroughfares, the arcade of the Park Square Building.

MRS. MEANS, IN FLOWERED BROCADE AND LACE, was at the enormous party Mr. and Mrs. S. Huntington Wolcott gave for Miss Edith Wolcott. Everyone is saying "it was a perfectly lovely party" and mine with more emphasis than the just out set. Some of the girls and the handsomely turned out under squad were on hand even before the musicians had uncovered their flannel swathed instruments. The young people had the ballroom and the splendid music entirely to themselves before the crowd began to arrive from dinners and theatres. And everyone stayed until almost out-up.

MRS. HINKLEY WELCH very handsome in white with touches of gold, was one of a late-coming group that Mrs. Edwin Sibley Webster, just back from New York and a visit to the Henry Upham Harrises (Polly Webster) was a 12-o'clock arrival. Mrs. Boylston A. Beal, very handsome in blue, found the Wolcott ball an opportunity for bon voyage messages. She's sailing for England next Saturday. Miss Eloise Lawrence and Miss Anne Ayer, inseparable always, made a lovely duo. Both wore pastel tints. Miss Ayer has her coming out ball next Friday, and it will duplicate the Wolcott affair in splendidness.

MISS HANNAH HALLOWELL turned her turn at the North Bennet Industrial School Sale on Saturday morning, using her wheedling talents on very willing customers.

HOLKER ABBOTT, president of the Copley Society, sends out the clarion call to members for the society's annual meeting set for next Wednesday afternoon, and announces that Mrs. Henry Lyman is opening her Commonwealth Avenue residence for the occasion. Matters of import come before the gathering, and likely there'll be much discussion about the society's big entertainment.

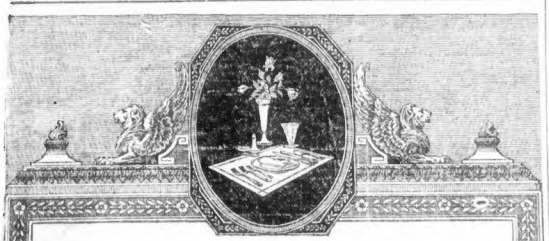
WHISPERS FLYING HERE AND THERE carry the most delightful suggestions of what's coming. And the Copley Society and society itself is vastly titivated thereby. Their Fine Arts Ball of some two seasons ago set a pace in beauty and brilliance quite staggeringly high, so the brightest and most ingenious minds in the ranks are hard at work to create some unusual affair to mark this Winter as superlative. Soon we'll know more about it all.

THE LOCAL REPERTORY movement is the metier, it seems, whereby young Henry Lee Higginson expresses his family inheritance as patron of the arts. That busy matron, Dame Rumor, says to me that young Mr. Higginson, grandson of Boston's Major Higginson of revered memory, is carrying on his great tradition by allying himself to the staff of the Repertory forces. Everyone in Boston's art-ideally inclined set knows just to what great degree it is indebted to the Late major.

SPEAKING OF THE REPERTORY, Dame Rumor pleasantly gossips about young "Hub" Fravesham, son of the famous actor, William Faversham, and his great social success in Boston. He's been taken wholeheartedly into the young dancing set, and would probably duties permit would attend a party every single evening. The young man's father numbers many Boston friends, so a Faversham popularity is out a foregone conclusion.

MRS. HORACE MORISON IS OPENING her Louisburg square home for three days, tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, for a sale of articles by the Handicraft Workers of Peterborough, N. H. It's a guild in which Mrs. Morison is very vitally interested, and each season, in the Just-before-Christmas time, she holds this sale. Everything is hand made and fits adorably into trousseaux chests and Christmas lists. And Mrs. Morison's charming drawing room is the pleasantest of places in which to make leisurely selection.

WITHOUT DOUBT MISS HELEN HAYES, with the artists sixth sense, will feel the specially friendly atmosphere radiating to her from admirers in the audience at the Plymouth this evening. Boston admirers of this charming young star are many as the sands of the sea and of them all none more enthusiastic than the Francis R. Harts. They have a box party for the opening, and among their guests are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Hart, Jr.



SILVER

Always welcome—always lovely

Silver has been called "the metal of the home." It has its place and its usefulness in dining-room, living-room, library, hall and bedroom. It sheds its beauty from mantels, dressing tables, sideboards and dining-tables.

The bride treasures her flat silver most of all her gifts. At least, that is the impression that one hundred and twenty-six years of serving brides have given us. Let her choose the pattern she likes. We make a record of her choice, and list the pieces as her relatives and friends select them. This prevents duplication and insures a well-rounded set.

All flat silver and the other pieces will be found on our second floor, where you may select each piece in harmonious surroundings.

In choosing silver, you may pay as much or as little as you please. Visit our silver floor, and see for yourself the beautiful silver you may select for wedding or anniversary gifts.

THE SUN PORCH
WHERE SUMMER STAYS ALL WINTER

Now that indoor days are here, your sun parlor or enclosed porch becomes the most popular place in the house.

It can be the most attractive, too. A suite of cane and willow pieces cushioned in one of the new French cretonnes or English linens . . . unfadable draperies in colors to match . . . a Scotch wool rug . . . here and there bits of decorated furniture to give snap . . . and you have a room that will cheer the whole family when the outside world is cheerless.

Paine decorators know how to impart that vivacious "something" which makes the sun parlor so appealing. They will gladly suggest color schemes for one room or an entire house. Why not avail yourself of this helpful service?

HEAT I ADD ONE CUP OF THIS PIMIENTO CHEESE GRATED

Should I Eat Dessert

No luncheon or dinner seems really complete without dessert. To many people it is the delight of the whole meal. Yet so often conscience whispers, "Be careful, remember there is a limit to digestion!"

But conscience and craving may both be satisfied if your choice is one of the hundreds of delicious gelatin desserts. You can serve them in the knowledge that these delicious fruits will not be "the last straw" for gelatin desserts require very little digestive effort. They are truly remarkable food—delicious, tempting morsels that you can enjoy to the utmost without regrets.

They are even safe for the littlest children, since they are body-building, energizing food.

Modern gelatin desserts of known pedigree are made from finest gelatin, snowy cane sugar and pure fruit flavors. They are economical and easy to prepare into scores of different dishes—not only desserts, but tempting salads and entrees, too.

The strawberry variety tastes just like fresh ripe fruit; the lemon and cranberry are my personal favorites and the orange flavor has the delightful refreshing qualities of this popular fruit.

CINNAMON ORANGES

Cut 8 oranges and carefully scoop out the pulp. Cut handles, and keep the orange baskets in cold water till ready to use. Dissolve four inch cinnamon candy sticks in 1 cup boiling water and pour over 1 package of orange flavored gelatin powder. When dissolved, add 1 cup cold water. Pour into the well-drained orange cups and chill till firm. Or pour into shallow pan to chill and, when firm, cut into cubes and serve in the orange baskets. This recipe serves six people.

I will be glad to send you on request a delightful new recipe book containing endless recipes and suggestions for using these fruity friends.

New Desserts that everyone will enjoy!

Out of one small bottle of Mapleine comes hosts of surprises — new puddings, new pies, new cakes, new candies—more delicious than you ever believed it possible for them to be. Mapleine gives you the super-flavor—delicately rich, tempting, matchless in taste.

Mapleine is a splendid syrup maker, too. Convenient! Economical!

CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE—Melt 2 squares chocolate, add 2 cups milk gradually, stirring constantly until smooth, and heat in a double boiler. Mix 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ cup sugar and pinch salt, and add to the milk. Stir until thickened and then cook for fifteen minutes. Add 2 eggs, slightly beaten, and cook three minutes longer. Add 1 tablespoon butter, cool slightly and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Put into a baked pastry shell. Serve cold with whipped cream or cover with meringue and brown in a moderate oven.

When reheating a pie, put in a baking dish filled with boiling water and place it on the stove for thirty minutes. Twenty minutes before pie is to be served, put it in the oven.

Cheese and Rice Croquettes
1 cup pimento cheese rubbed through grater.
2 cups cold boiled rice.
1 egg.
1 cup milk
¼ cup butter or butter substitute.
1-3 cup flour.
Salt, pepper and paprika.

Make a thick white sauce of the milk, butter and flour; add cheese, and stir until melted. Season to taste. Cool, mix with rice and shape. Roll in fine, dry bread crumbs, and dip in egg which has been beaten slightly, and diluted with 2 tablespoonfuls of cold water. Roll in crumbs again, and fry until brown in deep fat.

CROQUETTES ARE TASTY PENNY SAVERS

For many families, I think that right now is the famine season between two feasts—Christmas and Thanksgiving. Of course, I don't literally mean a famine, but a period of a rather lean larder chiefly replenished with foods of the penny saving type.

When my own food budget looks particularly lean, my thoughts fly to "fillers" that can be both "appetizing and economical"—among them cheese and rice.

Do you use tasty recips for Cheese and Rice Croquettes served with perhaps a thin tomato sauce. They are the delight of a little food shop up on Charles street where they bring an extremely fancy price for "fillers" that can be buttered toast, a few crisp leaves of lettuce and a cup of steaming coffee. It's a hard combination to beat!

NEW POLISH LEAVES NO FINGERPRINTS

What should you say was the difference between the man and the woman automobile driver?

I can just hear you replying in chorus and I seem to hear a stray comment or two not so complimentary to the "deadly" sex. I didn't mean to start anything, really. To me, the outstanding difference is that the masculine driver is chiefly interested in his motor—the woman driver in the appearance of her car.

So it seems to me that a household note is an appropriate place for a comment on a new automobile polish so good that it has for over a year been used in the factories of our finest automobile plants. There really is no longer any excuse for a dull or greasy finish on your car. Or on your piano or furniture, either, since this polish is equally efficient in the home or garage.

Of course, no one likes to drive a dirty car, but we've been warned repeatedly against strong soaps, oil or acid polishes. But at last we have a polish that produces "the finish without a fingermark." It contains no acid, oil, alkali, and is equally good for varnish, enamel, Duco, glass or fine woods. It protects the surface from oil, water and dust. An occasional application preserves the original finish, permanently, and can be easily applied by even the young daughter of the house.

Its price—60c—is another recommendation in its favor.

QUINCES AND CRANBERRY JELLY

Two quarts sliced quinces. Cover with cold water, cook until soft. Strain through cheese cloth. Three pints cranberries. Cook with 3 pints water until soft. Strain through cheese cloth. Mix the extractions, strain through 3 layers of cheese cloth and measure the juice. Boil down to one-half and add sugar equal to the original amount of juice and strain quickly through one layer of cheese cloth before filling glasses. Delicious.

GEMS FROM THE GINGER JAR

A CHARMING GIFT for a hostess is a gorgeously decorated porcelain jar of Chinese stem ginger. $3.25. Other pots, equally good looking but not quite so fat, $2.75. Half-pots, $1.50, quarter-pots, 75c. Send it with my favorite recipe for ginger ice cream or other delicious ginger suggestions.

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS THOUGHT with a homey flavor is a Chinese laquered box of Orange Pekoe tea. $2.25 for the rarest blend. I've found these sort of gifts highly popular.

STRAIGHT FROM PAREE come two-pound boxes of assorted glace French fruits beautifully packed for the Christmas season, $2. Yum, Yum, how good they are! They stamp your gift as truly unique.

SOME OF THE CLEVEREST WOMEN will use a certain little book that costs a dime, to insure the success of their Christmas parties, table decorations, flowers, novelties and fancy costumes. A book they tell me cost $10,000 to compile and publish, but costs you only a thin dime.

THE SPICE OF THE MENU lies in the most gorgeous-ever guava jelly. Crystal clear, straight from Florida to your table. Delicious with boiled meats, chicken or roasts. Wonderful on hot-buttered toast, in a cream cheese sandwich or salad. 35c for a generous jar. You'll come back for more.

DOES YOUR MOUTH WATER at the thought of dandelion greens in snow time? Delicious, tender greens now come in convenient sealed containers. No. 2 size, 30c. Not a trace of grit or bitterness. You'd wager they had just been dug from someone's fresh, green lawn. Needless to say, they're turribul good for us.

INVADERS THAT CREAP AND CRAWL into spotless kitchens will not visit your home if it's protected with a fragrant insect exterminator. Something new under the sun! Discourages moths, too.

ONE OF THE BUSIEST pieces of equipment in our Korner Kitchen is our step stool, the handiest little thing to have around the house. Why not check this item for a gift suggestion from the family for your own workroom? Standing one way, it's a substantial stool with a handy place to curl your feet. Upsidedown, a sturdy stepladder that reaches the most elusive top shelf in a jiffy. Not a wobble in it. Decorative, too—in oak, white, gray and blue, $3.00.

THERE'S NO HEEL DRAG in a certain 6-pound electric iron. Surface smooth as plate glass. Slender, pointed tip just right for ruffles and laces. Tip is hotter than the rest of the iron which means perfect ironing. Especially priced at $3.85. The proof of its virtues is in what it does, not what it costs. The iron I believe you've always wanted.

THERE'S A DISTINCTIVE CHARM about Christmas gift boxes of food delicacies. I found an especially attractive assortment of eight jars of choice jellies, jams and honey and four cakes of scrumptious chocolate in decorated Christmas specialty box for $2.

ANOTHER ASSORTMENT is packed especially for students. Fruit cake, dates, jam, raisins, tongue, candy, crackers, peanut butter, etc.—five pounds of goodness for a five-dollar bill. Nice gift for the bachelor, too. Twenty-two pound assortment, $10. Can be ordered and shipped by mail conveniently.

FOR A FAMILY GIFT $5 will purchase a generous gift box of good foods. Choice teas, coffees, cocoas, fruits, soups, cheese, dates, chocolates, sardines, etc.

ANOTHER HAPPY COMBINATION in food gifts is fancy box of choice delicacies including candy, crackers, cakes, jams, marmalades, coffee, tea, figs and raisins for $6. Weighs 19 pounds. Why not let these unusual and distinctive gifts answer some of your holiday problems?

Lady Helen Cake

My office family have designs on my figure. Today, the one day out of every week that they know I devote to skim milk and soda crackers, they invade my own special corner of the clubroom with the most fragrant, tantalizing, tempting and toothsome chocolate cake that ever scattered good diet intentions to the wind.

Here 'tis:

LADY HELEN CAKE—Cream thoroughly ¾ cup butter or other shortening and add 1½ cups sugar, beating continually. Add yolks of four eggs; beat well. Sift together 1 2-3 cups pastry or bread flour, ¼ teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons baking powder and add 1 cup chopped nuts. Add flour mixture and 1 cup milk alternately, a little at a time, to egg and sugar mixture; mix thoroughly, and just before last of flour is added, put in 3 squares melted unsweetened chocolate. Fold in beaten whites of 4 eggs. Pour into well-greased and floured pan-inch tube pan and bake in moderate oven 325 degrees F. about 1¼ hours. Cool in pan and cool. Cover top and sides with this icing:

Icing—Put 3 tbsps. milk and 2 squares unsweetened chocolate in top of double boiler; cook until a smooth paste; add 1 teaspoon butter, ½ teaspoon salt, and enough confectioner's sugar, about 2 cups, to make consistency to spread.

Market Wisdom

Since our premiere apple and cranberry season is with us, a few hints on their selection may not be amiss.

Size in choosing apples is not an important as you might think. Extra large apples besides being more expensive are subject to defects seldom found in medium size fruit. Too-small fruit is apt to lack flavor. The average apples are medium-sized, highly colored and free from blemishes. They are fairly firm-fleshed and have a bright skin which crackles like a toy balloon when rubbed. Remember that a bruise is as bad as a decay.

Mackintosh apples (in season from October to January) are excellent as dessert apples only. Greenings (October to March) are cooking apples only. Baldwins are an excellent all-around apple. Their season is from December to April. So are Northern Spies of the same season.

In choosing cranberries, the size, color and soundness are the chief features. The large fruit cost more and are usually better flavored. Soundness is the one thing to watch. The small decay spots can easily be detected by careful examination. Sound cranberries bounce like little rubber balls when dropped on a hard surface.

TO PREVENT ROASTED MEAT DRYING OUT and losing its flavor, if it is to be served cold, wrap it in a damp cheesecloth while hot.

Real and Mock Mince Meat

I've a confession to make. I have a complex against tomato mince meat. Why? I don't know, except that I never could persuade myself that any culinary magic could transform tomatoes into a 100 per cent. imitation of genuine old-fashioned mince meat. I don't think I'm narrow minded either. I have eaten mock mince meat, which I'm willing to admit was a pretty good substitute of the good old-fashioned kind, but it wasn't made with green tomatoes! Here's how it was made and it was good:

Mock Mince Meat—One cup currants, 1 cup cider, 1 pint chopped raisins, 1 cup molasses, 2 cups cold water, 1½ cups melted butter or other shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup cracker crumbs, ½ teaspoon allspice, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, slightly beaten. Let raisins and currants soak in cider, molasses and water over night. Stir in butter or shortening, sugar, crumbs, spices and salt. Add eggs, and bake between two crusts or use as filling for tarts.

But here's the way my own pies will be made this year:

Martha's Mince Meat—Five cups chopped lean cooked beef, 2½ cups finely minced suet, 7½ cups finely chopped tart apples, 3 cups cider, ¼ cup vinegar, a cup of molasses, 4 cups brown sugar, ¾ lb. citron chopped, 2½ cups seeded raisins, 1¼ cups seedless raisins, juice of two lemons and two oranges, 1 tablespoon ground mace, 2 tablespoons each of cinnamon, cloves and allspice, 2 nutmegs grated, 1 teaspoon almond extract, 3 cups liquor in which meat was cooked and 1½ cups fruit juice. The juice left from spiced fruit is delicious with 2 tablespoons of rose water added. Let this mixture simmer slowly 1½ hours, then add grated rind from one orange and one lemon. Seal in hot sterilized jars for keeping.

Helpful Hints

When taking pies from oven, put a high wire rack under them until cool, to keep the crust crisp and free from sogginess.

TRIUMPH FOR NEW GERMAN DIRECTOR

By LEO GAFFNEY.

Nothing succeeds like success. And Ben Lyon, the busy hunter and trapper of the feminine heart, may now cut another couple of extra heavy notches in his trusty Cupid bow after the amorous conquests of "The Prince of Tempters" at the Metropolitan.

Lois Moran

As a film lover de luxe, Ben is perhaps the most accomplished juvenile in the business, for he has crushed more leading ladies to his dress shirt than can be counted on the regulation number of human fingers and toes.

In the current adventure he has Lois Moran and the Austrian charmer, Lya de Putti, to reckon with, an E. Phillips Oppenheim story to contend with and a new school of direction to deal with—the German style of Lothar Mendes. With the result that he does more real acting than ever before in his life, and this in spite of very feeble assistance from Mr. Oppenheim.

Give the main credit then for this sudden conversion to Mr. Mendes, for his methods work equally well with the rest of the cast. And that applies particularly in the case of Miss Moran, who is seen for the first time without her halo. In her role of modern young Pollish woman, Mendes makes her out as a modern British young woman—who can take a cocktail or let it alone.

And the boys are down for Ben, too. Even though he does have to struggle with the improbabilities of the monk who is suddenly endowed with an English dukedom, he turns in a man's size job of acting just the same.

As the slinking siren, Lya de Putti is ever made up for the part, but she does not ever act it; Ian Keith contributes plausible villainy as the apostate monk, and Sam Hardy's excessive appetite for edibles furnishes the only moments of comedy.

There are many brilliancies in "The Prince of Tempters" and the direction is the high light, but the continuity twitches uncomfortably in spots and the action runs too long, but the many excellencies of Mendes is suitable palliation—even for Dr. Oppenheim.

On the stage at the Met, the John Murray Anderson presentation, "On and Brudway," reproduces the style of entertainment offered during the days of Koster and Bial and also shows progress in the movies. The usual short films and musical features complete the bill.

'KITTY KELLY' AT FENWAY

"Kosher Kitty Kelly," the latest comic Hebrew-Hibernian play, is the feature offering at the Fenway.

In the cast appears Vera Gordon in the Jewish matron role for which she has no peer. Viola Dana does the Kitty Kelly—collen with verve and fidelity, Aggie Herring, as the belligerent Irish mother of the heroine and the erring villain, Emil Boreo, and pictorially plays second fiddle to no one. Tom Furman is seen as a hearty Irish cop, and Nat Carr and Stanley Taylor are other efficient principals of the cast.

The film is generously humorous, its titles and inserts are characteristically clever. It is well directed and well photographed, a combination that assures the most austere auditor a riot for his risibles.

There are East Sides in every big city and for that reason there will be no end of enthusiasm over 'Kosher Kitty." And it will succeed for the picture has all the appealing elements of romance, melodrama and the warmth of humanity always associated with the Ghetto and the Ghetto scenes.

Particular mention might be made of Joseph J. Kennedy, the Boston film producer who sponsors the production. He has previously brought "Red" Grange in pictures in "One Minute to Play," and it seems as if "Kitty Kelly" were another contagious hit.

PAULINE DANFORTH SINGS WITH PEOPLE'S ORCHESTRA

Pauline Danforth, pianist, was the soloist at the second concert of the People's Symphony Orchestra at Jordan Hall yesterday afternoon. She chose Rachmaninoff's Concerto in F sharp minor for piano and orchestra as a vehicle for displaying her talents.

Stuart Mason conducted in a program that included, as comparative novelty, Mendelssohn's Overture, "The Fair Melusina." Beethoven's second Symphony and Thomas' overture to "Mignon" were the other numbers played to a good-sized audience.

PAIR SCORE IN NEGRO SPIRITUALS AT COPLEY

J. Rosamond Johnson and Taylor Gordon gave their second concert of this season, and their fifth in two years, at the Copley Theatre last night. Like the previous ones, the concert was devoted entirely to the singing of negro spirituals, with which the two performers have scored heavily.

The audience was of the usual good size and applauded the singers regrtfl.. The program, which included not only the old favorites, but several unfamiliar items, was increased by the addition of many extra numbers.

THERE'S NOTHING LIKE A MOTHER'S LOVE!

MATERNAL INSTINCT

In the inter-racial comicalities of "Kosher Kitty Kelly" at the Fenway, mauling Ma Kelly chides her child—played by Viola Dana—all because Vi, as the corned beef and cabbage heroine, had nibbled indiscreetly at matzos and pickled herring.

TWO HITS AT TWIN HOUSES

The Kathleen Norris story, "Josselyn's Wife," now appears in film dress with Pauline Frederick in the star role at the twin theatres, the Modern and Beacon. And author and star make a strong combination.

Anita Stewart is starring on the same bill in one of the most popular mystery plays of the last five years. "Whispering Wires," and in this film also, heroine and play combine to make a strong appeal.

Pauline Frederick

The Norris story of a woman who has married for security, but finds herself facing a difficult problem when the man she loved and lost in her youthful days returns to renew his conquest.

It is a plot that never grows old and it provides plenty of opportunity for both players and playgoers. The supporting cast includes Holmes Herbert, Armand Kalis, Josephine Hill, Carmelita Geraghty, Freeman Wood, Pat Harmon and Ivy Livingston. Richard Thorpe is responsible for the direction.

"Whispering Wires," which was all sheer thrills on the stage, is now improved by strong injections of comedy. The cast includes Edmund Burns, Charles Clary, Scott Welch, Mack Swain, "Heinie" Conklin, Frank Campeau and Charles Sellon. Albert Jay directed.

LEWIS STONE IN COMEDY

Lewis Stone and Anna Q. Nilsson are tickling audiences at the Washington Street Olympia with the uproarious comedy efforts of "Midnight Lovers."

Anna Q. Nilsson

Stone has never before gone in for broad-guaged comedy, nor has he had a part that demanded as wide a range of versatility. But his flair for comedy, though new on the screen, was amply shown long ago on the stage.

Miss Nilsso interprets a highly amusing role with nerve and skill. Chester Conklin, as the butler draws many laughs with his sweeping mustachios and comically lilting gait. John Roche, he of wavy-haired excellence, also contributes a worthy performance as a fop.

The story is a farcial account of a woman who marries in haste and as quickly repents her choice. She struggles to get rid of a husband she deems undesirable, but he proves anything but that. It is all very amusing and Director John Francis Dillon adds new lustre to his string of line films.

The Jolly Juniors in a new and sparkling revue head the vaudeville bill at the Olympia. This act is a sextette of sing and dance comedians. "Broomstick" Elliott and Babe La Tour offer a comedy skit called "My Daddy". Roy Hoops and company dispense varied amusements. Bob Fisher, comedian in blackface, and Bartlett and Mc-Nally, jugglers, also appear on the bill.

Other turns and the usual short films complete the program.

Old Essanay Players Are Stars Today

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Nestling in the shade of sheltering trees on Argyle street, Chicago, is one of the best equipped motion picture studios East or West. I speak of the Essanay plant, historic! in the part it has played in the lives of many of our best known film stars.

Gloria Swanson, Moore, Kathryn Williams and a host of others made their first movies.

It was here Gloria Swanson, a slip of a girl, made her first appearance on any screen in a Wallace Beery comedy. Charlie Chaplin, just beginning to attract attention as a comedian, produced "Carmen" and several other of his most successful pictures at this studio, which, save for a photographical experiment now sponsored by George K. Spoor, is dark today.

What a host of memories a visit to that studio recalls. Ben Turpin, playing an extra part here and there, Agnes Himickle, with a face like a Murillo painting, admired by all who saw her. Bryant Washburn, Francis X. Bushman, Beverly Bayne and Jane Wilder, now playing the bluebird heroine in Anita Loo's play, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

These Essanay graduates are numbered among the most famous celebrities in motion pictures today. No less of interest is the old Selig studios, where Colleen

Ten years ago both the Essanay and Selig studios with several others were going full blast. Some day we may again see Chicago manufacturing screen entertainment. There is always the hope in the heart of many of Chicago's business men that some of the pictures now produced in California or New York may be filmed here.

JOHN J. McGRAW, manager of the New York Giants, is to be represented in the movies. Not in person, you understand, but by a substitute, who will be made up to look like the well known boss of America's most popular sport.

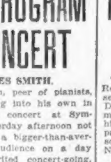
Sidney Jarvis has been given this job, and I am told he has been studying Mr. McGraw's characteristics ever since Famous Players-Lasky signed him for the role in "Casey at the Bat."

HOFMANN HAS FINE PROGRAM IN CONCERT

By MOSES SMITH.

Josef Hofmann, peer of pianists, is at last coming into his own in Boston. At his concert at Symphony Hall yesterday afternoon not only was there a bigger-than-average Hofmann audience on a day that hardly invited concert-going, but the audience was a very responsive one.

After many years, Boston music-lovers seem to be awaking to the greatness of this pianist. The audiences applauded everything Hofmann played yesterday. With good reason, too, for he was not at all in a grandiose mood, but in an exquisitely lyrical frame of mind. He touched the keys and the piano sang. Rarely does Chopin get so beautiful a performance as he gave us yesterday. It is not that composer's shorter pieces



Joseph Hofmann

Beethoven's "Pathedique" Sonata was given a fine interpretation. In the Scriabin F-sharp major Sonata Hofmann showed that there are no secrets for him in the piano mechanism. His tone here was luscious, his pedaling unusually skilful. "Three Chinese Pieces" by Abram Chasins proved to be not only diverting but also very musical.

Encores piled up after the playing of the Chopin group, and again after a brilliant performance of Balakirev's "Islamey."

* * *

When Ruth Pierce Posselt is hailed as a "phenomenal American violinist" she is not being over-praised, as she clearly indicated at her appearance last night in Symphony Hall.

This young girl, who is in her early teens, and who, by the way, is a local product, plays with positively amazing finish, technical facility, and breadth of style. She went through difficult pyrotechnics in Paganini's D major Concerto as only the very top rank of concert violinists are capable of doing.

There seems to be no flaw in her technical and musical abilities. Her intonation is a marvel, and a model for color and finish. So pleasing harmonies of remarkable purity, flowing, phrasing, expression—all these things were seemingly coming from a celebrated virtuoso, but actually from a very likable and attractive child.

The program included the very difficult Saint-Tarentelle of Wieniawski, which was played as a request encore, the Vitalis Chaconne, and shorter pieces. Needless to say, the audience received the prodigy very enthusiastically.

'PETER GRIMM' FILM TOPS NEW BOSTON BILL

The former Belasco stage hit, "The Return of Peter Grimm," which served as one of Janet Gaynor.

David Warfield's most popular vehicles, is now presented on the screen at the New Boston.

Alec Francis, veteran character man in the movies, has the role made famous by Warfield and he skilfully re-creates the charm of the kindly old man who had agreed to return to life after death to supervise the fortunes of his family and to direct the erring ones as he had been doing during life.

True to his word, the benign Peter wanders down the astral paths some time after his demise and re-enters his old home—to find that things have all gone topsy-turvy and he is powerless to make anyone feel or hear his presence. Close to despair, he watches a philandering suitor get on uncomfortably well with his charming ward, played by Janet Gaynor, and he is only able to prevent the marriage through the medium of the faithful boy who had loved the girl and lost.

"Peter Grimm" deals with life's greatest question—can the dead communicate with the living? The play did not have an answer for this, neither does the picture. But the problem is presented in vivid fashion and is highly entertaining.

Quick Quizzes on the Movies

By BARBARA BENTON

E. D. B., EAST BOSTON—Strange as though it seems, there is no star in "Ben Hur." Its producers manufactured it with that in mind, but there are such people as "featured players"—Ronald Colman, Alice Joyce and the rest of the principals. The same applies to "The Winning of Barbara Worth." It is a "big" star-production. However, let us hope that the splendid Mr. Colman will get the lucky break of having a story written especially for him. Then you will see him "starred."

M. B. B., WALPOLE—Ben Lyon? Been in pictures actively for six years. He is about 28, stands 5 feet 11, 160 pounds, dark brown hair and dark blue eyes. At present he is one of the First National studios, Burbank, Cal. A quarter with your letter will do the trick on a photograph. Seems as though somebody thinks pretty well of Ben!

T. G. J., TAUNTON—Jackie Coogan has by no means "dropped out of the pictures." His next is just finished, "Johnny Get Your Hair Cut," wherein the "young master" makes certain hirsute innovations.

W. I. B., ARLINGTON—Lois Moran was born in Pittsburgh about 17 years ago. She will appear in the forthcoming Luther Reed production of "New York."

FALL 'CLEARED' BY ROBISON OF ONE CHARGE

Washington, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—The Supreme Court today refused to review on criminal charges against Harry F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall arising out of leases on the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

The action became final on conspiracy charges.

Washington, Dec. 6 (I.N.S.)—Former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall had nothing whatever to do with arranging the governments lease with Edward L. Doheny for oil storage facilities at Pearl harbor, Hawaii, Captain J. K. Robison, N. S. N., retired, told the jury in the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial today.

The actual negotiations were carried on chiefly by subordinates in the navy and interior departments, Robison said.

Questioned by Owen J. Roberts, for the government, Robison said he and all agreed to keep secret the plans for the Pearl Harbor project, because it believed projects and proposals could be made public only after actual accomplishment.

KEPT FROM CONGRESS.

Reports read from Robison's testimony in the civil suit in which Robison said the secrecy agreement had been prompted by a desire to keep the matter away from congress.

"Didn't you say that?" Roberts asked.

"I guess so if its in the record," Robison answered.

Roberts theneed from the minutes of a meeting of the Navy council on Nov. 29, 1922, at which Robison announced he had a definite proposition for the second Pearl Harbor contract.

The meeting developed objection by the leasing of Elk Hills reserve, it suggested by Robison, Fall and Doheny.

Fall was quoted as having said: If we don't get this oil out now there will be any there three months from now."

"And, of course, that statement is not true?" Roberts said.

"Of course it's not true," said the witness.

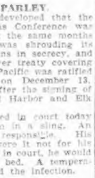
KEEPING ARMS PARLEY.

Roberts then developed that the Washington Arms Conference was in session during the time identical the navy was shrouding its Pearl Harbor plans in secrecy, and that the four-power treaty covering relations in the Pacific was ratified by the Senate on December 15, 1922, two days before the signing of the second Pearl Harbor and Elk Hills contracts.

Doheny appeared in court today with his left arm in a sling. An explanation was requested and physicians said were it not for his advised presence in court, he would prefer Doheny to bed. A temperature accompanied the infection.

JUDAH IS TO BE HELD FOR JEWS IN BROOKLINE

Dancing, singing and general funmaking will features the pageant to be held by Greater Boston Jews at the Shawmut Avenue, No. 10 Harvard Street, Brookline, tomorrow night. The affair is under the auspices of the Young Judaea of Greater Boston.



Anne Orris

The committee in charge is Ida Goldner Day, Zelda Rosenberg, Libby Johnson, Anne Orris, Sarah Winer, Edith Koplowsky, Sydney Epstein, Gertrude Nissenbaum, Charles Pronsbon, Dr. Anna Mintz and Frank B. Rubin.

The pageant is in celebration of Hanukah, the feast of lights. David Ben-Gurion, first president of the National Young Judaea, will speak.

DEADLOCKED JURY IN MORSE CASE DISCHARGED

New York, Dec. 6 (A.P.)—The Morse mail fraud trial which started here on Oct. 4 is at an end, temporarily at least, with two of the six defendants acquitted. The jury was a hopelessly deadlocked as to the others, however, that it was discharged after forty-two hours.

All were charged with issuing the mails in selling stock in the Morse Dock Corporation, but Henry H. Houghton and Harry E. Knowlton could not be reached in Berlin. Mr. Morse, A. W. and Harry F. Morse, sons of Charles W. Morse, stockholder, who was not brought to trial because of illness, and on Robert W. Much.

SUITS OPERATING TABLE; SAVES JOB AS GOVERNOR

Buenos Aires, Dec. 6 (A.P.)—Learning as he was on an operating table ready to undergo a serious operation that he was to be deposed as Governor of the province of Jujuy, Governor Villafane hurriedly left the table, went to the station and took a train for home. There is a law in Argentina that a governor who is without legal authority can no remain away from his post over a stated period, automatically loses his position. Just as he had induced himself in the hands of the surgeons Governor Villafane received that the Legislature intended to apply the precept if he did not return.

GOVERNOR DECLINES TO ATTEND HIS OWN TRIAL

Bay Minnette, Ala., Dec. 6 (A.P.)—Governor W. W. Brandon, accused with nine others of violating the State's prohibition law, considered himself under no compulsion to appear in court with them at the opening of their trial today in the Baldwin County Court.

The Governor, who was arrested with eight of his friends in a raid on a fishing camp near Foley, Ala., went yesterday at Jackson, Tenn. He said he had not been called to appear and had he been no would are declined because of a "previous engagement."

HOPE TO REVISE DAWES PLAN

Berlin, Dec. 6 (I.N.S.)—Hopes for a revision of the Dawes plan and possibly the replacement of the plan by a permanent settlement, were held in German circles today as the result of the publication of the second annual report of Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations.

Gilbert's report, after complimenting the Germans upon their "loyal and punctual payments" under the Dawes plan, indicates an acute situation may arise when the first full annuity payment is made in 1928. He calls attention to the fact that an international economic conference has been summoned to meet before that time and intimates the whole question of reparations may have to be reopened before long and the temporary Dawes plan give way to a permanent settlement.

The report of Gilbert attracted wide attention here because of its frank discussion of the German budget, virtually charging Germany with extravagant expenditure and unwise borrowing.

Gilbert finds German industry increasing steadily but warns against expecting too much, pointing out that there is still unemployment in Germany.

FOOCHOW PREPARES GREAT WELCOME FOR INVADERS

Amoy, Dec. 6 (A.P.)—A great reception is planned for the entry into Foochow of the Cantonese troops this week. Chinese mariners and merchantmen are attempting to maintain order in the city.

American and Japanese destroyers are standing by, but will not land any of their forces unless the situation becomes critical.

Chow Yen-Ren, a subordinate general, sympathetic with the Northerners, has retreated across the Min River borders, in Chekiang Province, after evacuating Yenpuhsiu to the Cantonese.

General Chang-Yi, defeated in defense of Foochow, seems to be engaged with the Cantonese forces south of Foochow.

PORTLAND VOTERS AT POLLS 6TH TIME IN YEAR

Portland, Me., Dec. 6 (A.P.)—Portland voters went to the polls today for the sixth time this year. Their object, in this, the final election of the year, was to choose a member of the City Council and three members of the school committee, and to accept or reject a new zoning ordinance upon which a commission appointed by the City Council has been working the past year. Six candidates to succeed Councilor Freeman M. Grant were on the ballot—Ralph D. Brooks, Morris E. Dunn, Frederic E. Hessell, Alexander M. Lamont, Lawrence F. Milligan and Lester F. Wallace.

Slays Friend in Fist Battle When He Is Refused Cigarette

New York, Dec. 6 (I.N.S.)—Refusal of a request for a cigarette today led to the murder of George Grandley, according to the police.

Grandley is alleged to have asked Charles Johnson of the New York Hotel, where both were living, for a smoke. Johnson's refusal, police said, led to a fight during which Grandley was killed.

MOTHERS will find a lot easy like Santa Claus—after they've looked through the Shreve-Crump's offers of "Gifts for Children."

BLIZZARD FOILS 'BILLION DOLLAR FLEET' RESCUE

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 6.—"Out of the trenches by Christmas," is still only a hope of the 121 big lake freighters which, following a new blizzard, are becoming enmeshed more tightly in the icebound lower regions of St. Mary's River.

Value of the fleet is estimated at nearly a billion dollars, including its cargoes of almost 15,000,000 bushels of grain and hundreds of thousands of tons of coal.

There is coal, coal everywhere in the upbound fleet, but none for the ships of the rapidly depleting bunkers of the great grain ships, some of which have less than five tons on board and days of bockade ahead of them.

The ships have frantically appealed for help from the city, but assistance which cannot be given because local coal docks have been emptied of all but sufficient amount to run domestic furnaces and stores of Sault Ste. Marie citizens over Winter.

It is regarded as probable the Lakes Carriers' Association will divert one of the upbound coal ships to the rescue of the icebound fleet.

HUB CARMEN VOTING TODAY

More than 8,000 ballots will be cast today in the annual election of the Boston Carmen's Union in the old Franklin schoolhouse in Washington street, near Dover, South End.

Candidates for all offices have opposition and seldom before has there been such interest stirred in a carmen's election. The most interest hinges on the contest for president, with Charles H. Clark opposing Pierce F. Quinlan.

Business Agent Timothy J. Regan is opposed by Matthew J. McLaughlin, holder of the same office.

FRANCE SIGNS NEAR EAST TREATY WITH VATICAN

Paris, Dec. 6 (A.P.)—A treaty between France and the Vatican regulating the relations from this time French representatives in the Near East, the Balkans and the Orient, was signed today by the new papal nuncio, Monsignor Gaglione. Foreign Minister Briand affixed his signature before leaving to attend the League Council in Geneva. There has been some hesitation on the part of Italian prelates in these countries to render the traditional honors to representatives of a Republic which sponsors no State church.

TWO FAMILIES DRIVEN OUT IN WALTHAM FIRE

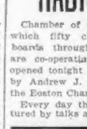
Waltham, Dec. 6.—Two families were driven from their homes into the bitter cold when a fire broke out at No. 45 Bedford street, causing $1,500 damage.

Theodore Hanson, owner of the house and a tenant, and Warren Gledhill, who occupies the other apartment in the two-story house, sought protection for the remainder of the night in the homes of neighbors.

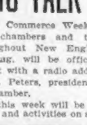
CHAMBER WEEK TO OPEN WITH RADIO TALK

Chamber of Commerce Week, in which fifty chambers and trade boards throughout New England are co-operating, will be officially opened tonight with a radio address by Andrew J. Peters, president of the Boston Chamber.

Every day this week will be featured by talks and activities on some



A. J. Peters



J. W. Powell

branch of the Chamber of Commerce's work. Transportation by air, rail and water will be discussed. Problems which every business man meets will be the subject for a number of speakers during the week.

One of the largest gatherings of the week will be held tomorrow when 500 members will have breakfast at the Chamber of Commerce Building to start a drive for new members.

L. K. Liggett

Maj.-Gen. O'Ryan

Another feature of the week will be the flight here tomorrow by Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, head of the Colonial Air Transport, with Gen. James G. Harbourd, head of the Radio Corporation of America.

They will fly here from New York in the first three-engined Fokker plane to be placed in the Boston-New York service and will arrive in time for the transportation day luncheon.

RAG PICKERS FORMING "TRUST," U. S. DISCOVERS

Washington, Dec. 6 (A.P.)—An international rag pickers' combination, following along the plan of the British rubber and the Brazilian coffee producers, has been discovered by commerce department agents in process of formation.

Trade Commissioner Nash at Berlin informed the department today that the rag pickers of Europe had met in Paris to draw up regulations for controlling international trade. American industry imports rags in considerable quantity for raw material. During the first eight months of this year Germany alone shipped 46,250 tons here.

TODAY

But at his exhibition on Broad way in New York, presently, he will show new things in a Ford car, interesting to the millions that already have one.

His flying machine plant has been doubled in size. Whoever wants to will be able to fly safely in a Ford airplane with three separate, powerful engines, everything made of metal.

THE DETROIT TIMES tells you that Dodge Brothers in the week ended November 27 broke all records in car and truck production.

E. T. Strong, president of the Buick Motor Company, wandered down to the "line" to see Buick No. 1,750,000 roll of that plant.

Henry Ford is an even more thoroughly seasoned automobile father, having long since been absorbed in his Ford car No. 10,000,000.

The automobile business is certainly a business.

MR. LINDNER, publisher of the Detroit Times, has information interesting to other publishers, whose minds it like to attach importance to filthy lucre. Three makes of automobiles are expected to do twenty million dollars worth of advertising in 1927.

WILLIAM A. NIEDERMEIER, a rural mail carrier of South Rockwood, Mich., is dying. Two prohibition agents, who shot him, express regret. They mistook him for a rum runner as he was returning in his little boat from shooting ducks.

IT IS REGRETABLE, for rum [illegible] hijackers can [illegible] kill each oth citizens. Those hired to enforce law and order should be quite certain that they are shooting the right parties in our little alcohol civil war.

SPECIAL CARE should be taken when enforcement officers stop citizens in automobiles on country roads. How is the driver to know that it isn't a highwayman ordering him to stop, and what are HIS rights as regards shooting?

ONTARIO, just across the river from booming Detroit, has gone wet, and promises "to sell rum at fair prices."

Last Wednesday Ontario citizens voted to throw bootleggers and blind pigs into the ashcan and keep the profit for their government.

Whiskey, etc., neatly wrapped in paper that has silk threads and imitates bank note paper, will be sold to Canadians by the government at a profit of 100 per cent.

WHEN SUCH BOTTLES are sold on the American side of the water, the salesman adds three dollars to the government price, stamped on each bottle. It is the easiest known way to earn $100 a day.

THE CANADIAN government will make its annual profit of millions. Canadians delivering the whiskey to American[illegible] will make their annual profit of millions. These facts influenced the voters.

AN ARMY of men will be employed by the United States to keep the whiskey out, and will not keep it out. But some of them will get some of the money and some of the whiskey.

Prohibition, an effort to keep men from doing what they want to do, with the result that they refuse to respect, represents a problem.

WHERE DOES your income tax dollar go? [illegible] nator Capper has figured out the answer.

"On public payrolls, in 1913, there were 1,753,000 names. Now there are 2,800,000 names."

ONE IN TEN of all that earn their living in the United States are on some public payroll. It costs the average family in taxes $125 a year to pay the salaries.

ZIZI LAMBRINO BANS ROYALTY'S IDEALS OF LOVE

Prince and Peasant ~ Romance Is Revealed ~ By Gypsy Blooded Zizi

PRINCE CAROL

His first meeting with her is revealed in novel of Zizi Lambrino, first wife of the one-time Rumanian heir.

SON PRINCE WON'T RECOGNIZE

For several years Zizi has waged court battles to have her little son recognized as the legitimate son of Prince Carol. She just lost a decision in a Paris Court

QUEEN MARIE

Her royal mother-in-law is referred to as "The Queen" in novel written by Zizi Lambrino, which once was suppressed.

PEASANT WIFE OF PRINCE

Zizi Lambrino, who once called Prince Carol of Rumania "husband," and whose novel reveals their secret love affair beginning in the Balkans.

CAROL'S BANNED WIFE TELLS OWN STORY

Zizi Lambrino, Prince Carol's morganatic wife, pours forth her soul in a novel emulating her august mother-in-law, Queen Marie. The story she tells is the story of her own life. Rosa, in the story is Zizi herself. "The Prince" is Prince Carol, Queen Marie is one of the characters, and is constantly referred to as "The Queen," while the King of Rumania is depicted as "The Emperor." How a Prince wooes love is recklessly told

A Thrilling Romance of Modern Youth in Boston

READ THIS FIRST

HONEY LOU HUNTLEY is private secretary to old "GRUMPY" WALLACK, head of the Wallack factory in Roxbury.

Everybody at the factory likes Honey Lou, from the office vamp, ANN LUDLOW, to JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk But Honey Lou is afraid of Joe Meadows

JACK WALLACK, son and heir of old "Grumpy," starts to work at the factory. He falls in love with Honey Lou, and she does with him. But when he tries to kiss her, she flies into a rage and slaps his face. Later he apologizes.

One night, when Honey Lou and Jack are leaving the office, they meet ANGELA ALLEN, Jack's childhood friend. Honey Lou is sure that Angela is in love with Jack.

Jack meets Honey Lou's gentle well-bred mother and her halfsister, MARGRET MOODY, and realizes that she has been reared as carefully as any of the girls of his own world.

MRS. HUNTLEY, Honey Lou's mother, makes a quaint grassy dress for her to wear to the party. Honey Lou sees Angela in a plain dress and realizes she is overdressed and queer looking.

Grid Coaches Demand Elimination of Ties in Football Tilts

By BIRNEY P. LYNCH

OVERWHELMING sentiment against the present football code, especially the rule which allows games to end in ties, has been brought out in the first week of the Boston American's effort to get to the bottom of leading coaches' views and officials on deadlocked contests and their remedies for them.

WITHOUT EXCEPTION EVERY COACH INTERVIEWED HAS GONE ON RECORD AS FAVORING THE ELIMINATION OF TIE GAMES.

Many suggestions have been made by coaches and former players, but a majority inclined to the choice of the most simple one way of [illegible] Bob Fisher, Boston College coach branded as a "necessary evil," would be by starting the third period with the ball in the same position as at the end of the second and abolishing the kick-off at the start of the second half.

[illegible] football games [illegible] where the receiving team [illegible] ONE instead of [illegible] actually playing TWO games as under the present rules.

Most of the [illegible] coaches in the [illegible] agreed [illegible] a modification of the [illegible] system of [illegible] at the end of the second period [illegible] the ball [illegible] on the kick-off at the beginning of the third period.

Eddie Casey Takes Rap at Rules

Eddie Casey, one of the [illegible] ever developed in college ranks, [illegible] first year as head coach at Harvard, today declared that he had a [illegible] of eliminating ties in most [illegible]. Here is his [illegible]:

"Let it be known [illegible] of intermission between the second and third periods. That would allow sixty consecutive minutes, less necessary times out, for the settlement of the question of superiority. A lot of coaches probably will object to this plan on the ground that it is too drastic and would be a hardship on the players. But I can say that I never was tired enough for a fifteen minute rest at the end of any second period in which I [illegible].

Percy Haughton, former Harvard [illegible] one of the greatest [illegible] games ever [illegible] declared [illegible] have the deadlocked games [illegible] the present [illegible] other [illegible] features of the games [illegible] need.

"I saw the Cornell-Penn game this year, which ended in a tie, and the crowd leaving the field was like a funeral," said Felton. "The tie game took all the pep out of the followers of both teams. Anyone in that [illegible] 85,000 probably never wants to see another tie game."

"But the problem of cutting them out is something else again. Many solutions offer themselves, but I hesitate to advance an idea until I have made a thorough study of the most practical and most effective way."

Chandler for Banishment of Draw Scores

Neal Chandler, former Williams coach and a member of the sports staff of the Boston Evening American, [illegible] exception to the rule. Chandler expressed the opinion that the rules committee eventually would be forced to take [illegible] of the present "game" to games. He said:

"[illegible] point by point more [illegible] games are a nuisance and an evil and it seems [illegible] should be made. Most of the suggestions proffered [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] a good one that some day some one will [illegible] it.

"In the meantime there is one point, which if attended to, might simplify the tie game menace and would in addition, make the game of football fairer to all concerned.

"As it stands now every football game is in reality two football games. One begins at the beginning, where all things should begin. The other begins at the beginning of the second half, where there is absolutely no excuse for such a repetition.

"The third period [illegible] to be fair, start just where the second period left off, as do the second and fourth periods. Many a time has a team been deprived of a certain score by the whistle at the half.

"Why this rule was ever invented in mystery enough, but why it has been left in the books, and why no one has strenuously attacked it in all these years, is still more of a conundrum.

"Although such a chance might not, in fact would not, be ironclad proof against tie scores, it would be of immense value in making deadlocks scarcer."

DUTCH CONNORS TO COACH N. Y. U. HOCKEY OUTFIT

New York University has signed "Dutch" Connor, a star on the New Hampshire state hockey team several years ago as coach of the N. Y. U. ice men. The New Yorkers, without a schedule as yet, still hope to surprise the sport world with a string of hockey victories to compare with the nine-win football surge of the Violets this Fall.

BOB QUINN ON TRAIL OF YOUNGSTERS

BOB QUINN is down at Asheville bay, and he may come away with several minor league stars packed in his grip. The Red Sox prexy talked things over with Manager Will Carleton before he fled, and gathered a line on the loose young athletes that Will thinks might stren then his ball club. The Fenway magnate has half a dozen kids parked around in the lower leagues, and he will be collecting information on them. Bob is very popular with the minor league owners. He was in the bushes as a manager himself for quite a while, and he has been a generous purchaser when he saw anything that looked good. Being in right with the little fellows often brings in some very fine tips. That was the way the Detroit owner gathered Ty Cobb, who made out pretty well. John L. Taylor grabbed Tris Speaker from Little Rock because his club in the I down there, and he had the edge on whenever pastor might crop up in the vicinity

Nick Flatley

Mister Quinn needs a couple lose ones to help his new manager along. He has had so many tough breaks that he's due for a few good ones. His first came when Bill agreed to come back to the game, even though his salary was something for a losing ballclub to worry about.

President Quinn has a more or less fish park and Boston seems quite fond of baseball for fun and cash. How he likes baseball I know it. He must like baseball, for he pulled it here in three tough years and that's the season I met him. Bob always has a thought for the other fellow when it comes to baseball. If he sees a player that he thinks would help some club he will recommend his player for $5 to help along the American Christmas Fund.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, a emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Christmas Shoppers

There are many kinds of bells, but the ones most thought of at this time of year are Christmas bells and telephone bells.

The latter makes Christmas shopping so much easier. Just call the Where-I-Can-Buy Service on the telephone, Liberty 4000, and when This Bell rings you will have your shopping questions answered.

It's a free shopping information service. You'll save much time and many steps if you ask the Finding Phone first.

Then when the Christmas bells chime you'll realize that both bells help to make that day a success.

DAILY SHORT STORY

THE WAY OF A YOUTH

By Eudora R. Richardson

"Y[illegible]

Ross shrugged his tailored shoulders. "To my own father I must admit that I have some gift for presenting myself convincingly to the other sex."

"Then is it bigamy you contemplate?" Lucille to the club at four for tea and bring her back by five-thirty that she might rest for the dance that evening. With Claudia he would calm at six-o'clock hour at which she expected to finish her golf.

Later as Ross watched Lucille practice of minted lemonade and fig sandwiches he wondered why he had ever thought heart-non admirable in woman. Indeed Lucille stepped and moved as though lovely existed merely for purposes of symmetry.

"Those girls on the course" Ross commented, "have their red faces peeled with perspiration and they're as cold as ice-cakes in your mint."

Suddenly Ross made up his mind that Lucille had every quality one could want in a wife.

"Old sport—dance" he gasped and began again. "Um, I might well adopt, I'm thinking of getting married—"

"Now isn't that funny," Lucille broke in, "your confiding when I come out to tell you about Jack and me."

The girl extended her left hand, upon the third finger of which a diamond sparkled. Ross almost collapsed. Instead, he hurried through his ice and suggested that it was time to take Lucille to the rest and pool-side.

According to schedule Ross joined Claudia for the six-o'clock swim. As he watched Lucille graceful on the diving board and swim the length of the pool with an overhand that would put Esther Williams to shame he knew that the hurt inflicted by Lucille was healed.

Whatever made him think that a frail, neutrine girl could fill his requirements?

The diver had left the pool when Ross and Claudia rose dripping to the cement, soles. With reverent eyes filching her lashes and face toes peering in the water, his Claudia seemed to Ross the very personification of health and beauty.

"My dad wants—me—to settle down," the boy began. "I guess you know I'm nuts about you. Could you manage—"

A clear laugh broke the afternoon's stillness. "Oh, Lordy, boy! It hurts to laugh like this. I'll race you to the club house."

Then she was off. Ross followed from afar. This time the rejected young man was genuinely incensed. Darn it all! He didn't like to be ever-been in love with either Claudia or Lucille. One was too fragile, the other too athletic one too clinging the other too independent.

When Ross decided to dress half an hour after he was alone, one entered in the spirit of the modern game and I'll have had lots of business in the meantime. As soon as the two had left the pool Ross rose and began to dress.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THERE are so many automatic pianos on the market nowadays that the American people are ruining their feet.

ONE guy said he walked twenty miles the other evening playing Stars and Stripes.

HE says he likes to play operatic selections but they give him corns.

CHOPIN is his favorite composer but his compositions contain too many bunions.

THERE'S a callous in every sonata.

BEETHOVEN'S stuff is wonderful too, but the wear and tear on your feet is terrible.

BESIDES, the pieces are expensive. It costs two and a half for the roll and three dollars for the chiropodist.

ONE fellow got so tired at the piano the other night that his foot went to sleep in the middle of an opera.

HE finally had to soak his feet in coffee to keep them awake.

LOTS of wealthy homes now have electric players and all that the children have to learn about music is where to find the button.

THE light company is their teacher.

THESE reproducting pianos are wonderful. Instead of murdering Mozart by hand, we can now electrocute him.

IT costs a little more but it's quicker death.

IT won't be long now before the manufacturers will be putting motors in ukuleles.

THIS, however, wouldn't be practical, as most of the popular songs on the market would blow the fuses out.

ONE fellow took his violin down town the other day and wanted to have it wired for electricity.

HE said he was a busy man and that it took him too long to play a piece by hand.

THESE electrical devices are all right in the city, but the composers never become popular on the farms until their operas can be played by donkey engines.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS---BY HELEN ROWLAND

THERE are a dozen perfectly good reasons why a Certain Young Man should love a girl I know.

She loves him.

She would do anything in the world to make him happy.

She understands him better than his own mother does.

She has nice eyes, perfect teeth, a charming smile and an amiable disposition.

She was born to be a wife and mother.

His people highly approve of her.

They both play golf, swim, ride, and have gorgeous times together.

They like the same books, know the same people, and both prefer their steak "broiled medium."

She has a sense of humor, and appreciates his brand of wit.

She can talk intelligently about almost anything.

She would never nag him, never deceive him, never squander his money, and never bore him.

And he LIKES her—awfully!

BUT—

He loves a frivolous, irresponsible little thing, who lives in the wrong street, goes with the wrong set of people, uses the wrong brand of perfume, and wears the wrong clothes—

Because he is not QUITE sure that she loves him!

Because she knows how to torture him with doubt and can do it in an utterly miserable way with jealousy.

Because she has a fascinating little dimple that comes and goes in her cheek, and a provocative twinkle in the corner of her eyes.

Because she was born to be petted, spoiled, indulged and "taken care of."

Because his people have done everything on earth to separate them.

Because she never talks anything but nonsense, and will pretend to listen for hours while he talks about HIMSELF.

And he will marry her—Of course!—and live happily—for a week or two.

Yet men continue to sigh bitterly that "marriage is a failure"—and to wonder why divorce lawyers get rich!

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

This Bill Should Pass

Disabled Emergency Army Officers Should Be Put on Same Pay as Regulars

Two officers fought side by side in the American Army. Both were disabled in the line of duty.

One was a REGULAR officer. He was allowed by Congress to retire on seventy-five per cent. of his wartime pay. He is comfortable for life, as he should be after offering his life and sacrificing his health in the nation's service.

The other man, likewise wounded and permanently disabled, was an EMERGENCY army officer, a civilian who had come up through a Citizens' Training Camp. He performed the same wartime service as the regular officer and got the same wartime pay. But when he was crippled, he found Congress had made no provision for HIM to retire on seventy-five per cent. of war pay. All he got was a small disability pension. Instead of being comfortable for life, he was in want.

This is the situation of eighteen hundred disabled emergency army officers. They are the sole class of officers who are thus unfairly treated. Retirement pay is allowed not only to disabled army regular officers but to disabled EMERGENCY officers in the Navy and Marine Corps.

The Congress which meets today should remedy this injustice by passing the Tyson-Fitzgerald bill, putting the disabled emergency army officers on the same retirement pay as the regulars. The bill would have passed last session if Senators and Congressmen had had a chance to pass it, but the dominant steering committees in House and Senate prevented it from coming to vote, on the alleged ground that it violated the President's economy program.

Nobody will believe that the President wants to economize on a single class of disabled war veterans selected for persecution. If the country were impoverished we ought to sell bonds to raise the $1,190,000 a year which it will cost to care for these men the few years they are still with us. But we are not impoverished. Congress finds a treasury so full that it can refund two hundred and fifty millions to the 1925 income tax payers.

The Tyson-Fitzgerald bill should promptly be reported out of committee to both houses of Congress, given a preferred place on the calendar and passed.

Gold at the Front Door

Why There Are No "Abandoned" Farms on the STATE Highways of New England

It was an observant traveling salesman who reported, up in Maine two or three months since, that he had found plenty of abandoned farms in that region, but none on the State roads.

Back on the side roads in the country districts, the traveling man said, there were tumble-down buildings and old, worn and discouraged farmers. Sons and daughters had escaped to the city and decent food, electric lights, heated rooms and bathtubs. "But," said the traveler:

"On the State roads it seems to me the farms have taken a new lease of life. Farmers are running roadside markets, furnishing camping ground for motorists, rooming and feeding them if they prefer, and selling them antiques.

"No, sir, I don't notice any State-road dwellers doing any abandoning of the old farm. They used to look out across the peaceful fields and listen to the lowing of the kine. Now, they look up the State road for 'traffic,' and listen to the jingle of the cash. . . . If you are looking for abandoned farms, look away from the State roads. They've solved the problem, there. Nobody ever abandons a gold mine."

That more than one roadside stand here in Massachusetts IS a gold mine is shown by the report which has just been prepared of a survey of one hundred and seventy stands made by the State Department of Agriculture.

The annual business of the roadside stands in Massachusetts, the report says, varies from a few dollars to $30,000.

One stand owner reported that he had sold $675 worth of eggs and live poultry in a single day.

Another man reported a day's sales amounting to $632. He runs his stand the year around and last year took in $18,300. The bulk of the stands sell from $1,000 to $5,000 worth of produce each year.

And the business still is new, only one-third of the Massachusetts stands being more than five years old.

The survey was the result of a growing suspicion that many if not most of the stands were conducted by fakers, handling produce shipped out from the city markets.

To the contrary, Director Frederick V. Waugh of the Division of Markets reports NINETY-SEVEN PER CENT. of the farm products sold at the roadside stands of Massachusetts, on week-days, at least, is GROWN LOCALLY.

Where Is Mumtaz?

The Maharajah Is Here

It seems we have with us His Royal Highness, formerly the Maharajah of Indore. This royal gentleman gave up his throne to his son when the Mumtaz Begum incident was made public.

Miss Mumtaz is a young lady. A commercial gentleman with a big fortune and a large automobile stole her from the Maharajah in India. Somebody, we name no names, hired somebody else to stab the commercial gentleman to death, and at the same time slash and disfigure the face of the Mumtaz Begum.

Maharajahs are touchy. In the good old days such a stabbing and slashing would have been nothing.

But the British who now rule India are fussy.

His Maharajah Highness had to get out and is on his way to Hollywood. He will see some things there that would surprise even Indore. The [illegible] and the fat commercial gentleman that was [illegible] to death.

Alternatives

To church every Sunday for two years or six months in a prison road camp is the option facing a drunken driver in North Carolina. Which would you choose?

An Unpardonable Discrimination

NIGHT SCHOOLS AN AID TO MANY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

DID you ever think of the vast pains to which the community goes not only in providing an education for all children in the public schools, but in giving training to those who cannot attend the public schools through the means of night schools?

There they teach various trades, home making for women, and English for the foreign born.

A very large force of teachers has been organized for these schools for this season in New York City. All the night schools operate under the Regents' regulations and the night courses duplicate the daytime high school courses.

One who wants to train for the job of clerk or secretary can find opportunity here.

It has been pretty well demonstrated that the man or woman who is decidedly most out of luck in the United States is the one who has no training.

Such a one in New York has only himself to blame, for night schools are everywhere.

The youth who is compelled to leave school before graduation can finish his course at night and get his diploma just the same.

The courses in the evening high schools offer a complete curriculum that leads to academic diplomas and entrance into college.

The requirements and standards are about the same as in the day school.

Every facility for studying languages, American history, mathematics and the sciences is offered.

By application to the school a special prospectus may be obtained.

Many a youth is impatient to get to work and make money, but there is nothing better that one may do with his years between eighteen and twenty-five than to devote them to proper training.

When he finally goes to work his efforts will be more effective.

WORKING OUT

IN order to keep physically fit for future political campaigns, former fire commissioner Theodore A. Glynn may be seen daily at the CABOT STREET GYMNASIUM. He was missed for a couple of days, from his noon-day exercises. It was learned that he was suffering from a bad bruise of the left shin bone from collision with the gym's "horse." He says he expects to stand on both feet within a week.

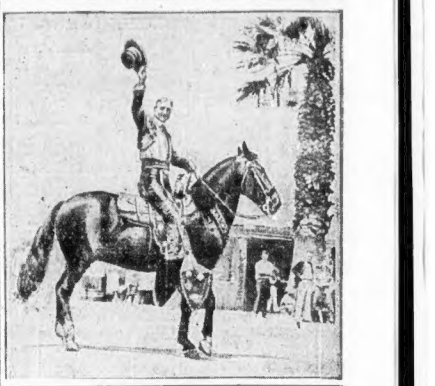
Happy McAdoo!

Worrying About Politics? Not He



THIS IS W. G. McADOO, ONCE IN POLITICS, AND WORRIED, NOW OUT AND HAPPY

People in other States read messages from California saying, "W. G. McAdoo, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, boss of railroads during the war, isn't interested in politics, doesn't WANT to run for President, doesn't care if he ever sees any more politicians or goes to any more conventions."

That is hard to believe. Everybody says, "ONCE IN POLITICS, ALWAYS IN POLITICS."

Usually any man with the slightest chance of a Presidential nomination thinks and dreams of nothing else.

But when you see this smiling McAdoo on horseback, and hear that the photograph is taken in California sunshine, where McAdoo has gone to live, you can believe that he is satisfied where he is and doesn't want to get off of that horse and begin fighting for votes.

This picture shows Mr. McAdoo at a California fiesta helping others to celebrate sunshine, flowers, fruits and the finest climate in the world.

Mr. McAdoo, like a million other converts, says he wouldn't leave California even to be Shah of Persia, and this picture confirms it.

The fancy costume dates back to old Spain, also the saddle, bridle and long stirrups.

Neither Satisfied

Clinton N. Howard, caustic prohibitionist, has a saving sense of humor. He thus defines the status of his cause:

"The 'drys' have the Constitution and Congress but the 'wets' have the liquor."

However, it is mostly very bad liquor.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HERE'S a cry of revolt against the Double Standard.

It's written by a Modern Girl and it is going to win a lot of approval. By the same token, my answer may be unpopular. But that shan't prevent me from making it.

Dear Elsie:

A spirit of rebellion has come over me and I can't keep still any longer. It's about the double standard. You know all the admonitions handed to women against drinking, smoking and petting—particularly petting.

"Don't do it, girls," they all cry. "Men don't want man-handled girls for wives."

That's what makes me mad. Why should a man-handled girl be considered any worse than a man-handled man? Is it fair? I'll say it isn't. Who are these demigods that we should guard our every action? Why shouldn't they be forced to guard their action as well.

Of course there is a lot of talk now about sex hygiene, but nobody thinks it is very terrible if a boy sows his wild oats as long as he doesn't hurt his health. Boys can have all they want of jazz—they can break the conventions—they can have wild parties with wild women.

But when they settle down to go steady with a girl, or when they decide to marry, they expect the girl of their choice to be pure as an angel. And they have no use for her if she isn't. Nor have they any use for the girls whom they have enjoyed during their petting parties and whom they, themselves, have dragged through the mire. Elsie, it makes me furious.

I'm not asking for a Single Standard that will allow both men and women to wallow. I, myself, despise smoking and drinking, and these petting parties nauseate me. I just want fairness. If men don't want man-handled women, I'll tell the world women don't want woman-handled men!

DEFIANCE.

Timely Protest

That's a timely protest, sister, and I honor you for making it. But I don't quite agree with your viewpoint. I admit that decency is as desirable in a man as in a woman, and that a man who treats love in a cheap, vulgar way is not a fit mate for any girl. Also there can be no question about the necessity for a healthy body in either sex.

But I don't agree that a shop girl man is on the same plane as a shop worn woman. He may be as offensive to good taste, but he is not as great a violator of the natural order of things. And sex morality does not hinge on the natural law, despite our changing tastes in ethics.

You and I may desire a Single Standard for men and women, but Old Mama Nature did not plan such a standard. She made sex indulgence a very different thing for man than for woman. Man was to be the hunter, the fighter.

Sex was a passing incident in his program, speedily forgotten in the battle or the chase. He could be and was a promiscuous petter without violating Nature's plan.

If you will study the early history of the human race you will find that, at first, the males weren't even family men. The brief mating fervor involved no future responsibilities.

But it was not so with a woman. Love was an incident to the male. It was a cycle to the female. The mating adventure to the woman meant more than a petting party. It meant a helpless baby to be protected. It meant that the woman's life must henceforth project itself into another life. Kisses had future for women, very grave futures which neither the woman nor the race could ignore.

Frowned Upon

That's why "man-handled women" have been frowned upon from the beginning of the race "Defiance." The woman who made light of love or evaded its harvest was not a good member of the tribe. She did not contribute to its population. In wasting her potential motherhood she wasted the tribal wealth.

So the man-handled woman was frowned upon and made a pariah and the double standard began.

The relationships of men and women have changed greatly since the primitive days. But beneath all the natural changes lie the old natural law still holds. Sex still lays a lesser handicap on the man than on the woman. The cheapening of sex still works a greater harm on the woman than it does on the man. Whether you like the fact or not, a man-handled woman is far less in the matrimonial [illegible] than a woman-handled man.
